What is Outlook Web Access?

- OWA is a web based program that allows users to access their work related Emails from any internet connection
 - For example : from home or a deployed location

Acquiring PKI Certificates

The first step to accessing OWA

Acquiring PKI Certificates

- PKI Certificates are issued at the IPAC ID Card section Building 1 Room 223
- At the IPAC ID Card section ask the clerk to install or update your PKI Certificates

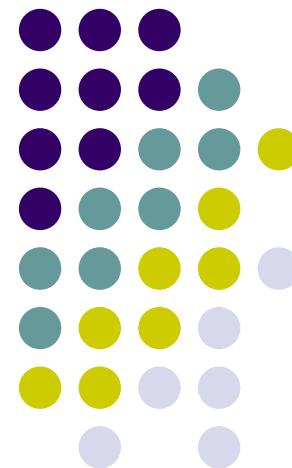

Acquiring PKI Certificates

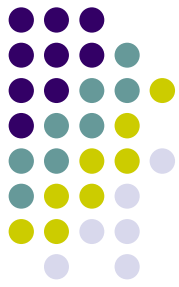

- What you will need when visiting the IPAC ID Card section:
 - Your ID Card
 - Your ID Card PIN
 - Your NMCI Email Address
 - (your_login_id@usmc.mil)
 - (Your e-mail address will be embedded in your ID Card, make sure you give the clerk your correct address or your PKI Certificates will be invalid)

Acquiring and Installing a CAC Reader

Once you have your PKI Certificates on your ID Card
this is the next step to accessing OWA

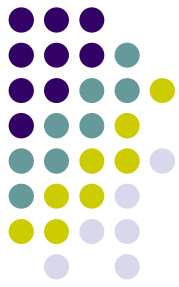

Installing CAC Reader

- Acquiring a CAC Reader
 - If you are using your NMCI laptop, a CAC reader is already installed. Please skip to the Accessing NMCI Email section.
 - It is located on the left hand side of the laptop
 - If you need a CAC Reader for your home computer or are using a non-NMCI computer you can obtain one from MAG12 S6 by calling 253-4041 or 253-4615

Installing CAC Reader

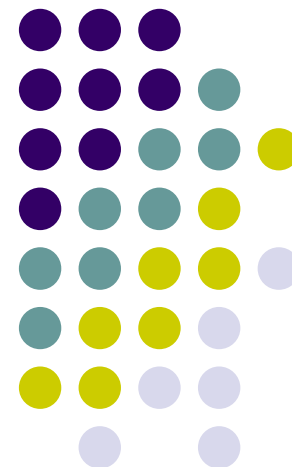

- Connect the CAC reader to your computer
 - Connect your CAC Reader to an open USB Port on your computer →
 - (Cancel any installation attempts that may appear)
